INDIANAPOLIS TEAM WORKING IN GOOD SHAPE

Bill Phillips Indianapolis Federals are still engaged in the dignified pastime of adding to their pennant chances out in Indianapolis and the people there are getting prouder than ever of Bill and his outfit. This fact is proven by the following clipping of a story written by Jack Velock in the Indianapolis Evening Sun:

"Five other managers in the Federal league are trying to slow Bill Phillips up, but Bill won't "whoa." He is leadin' them these Hoosier Feds on and on and he's got his glims glued on that gonfalon, so there's no chance to get his attention on anything else. Bill says he's figuring on finishing the season with a better lead over the nearest club than he has at present, an dthat means that he has a few cards left to play when the time comes.

"The Hoosiers, like all ball clubs, take their slumps now and then. But after they got over a slump they turn right around and wallop the tar out of everything in sight. They've got more pepper than a herd of Texas steers on a stampede. A few wallops don't seem to slow 'em up a bit and that's one reason why they seem to have such a good chance to cop.

To Entertain at the Park

Eldora Amusement Company to be Host to Newspaper Men of Valley

On Tuesday evening the Eldora Amusement company will entertain the members of the Monongahela Valley Press Association and a few friends at the second annual groundhog supper at Eldora park. Last summer the Eldora management entertained at the first groundhog supper at which time newspaper men from the valley and a number of street railway men were present. It was decided to hold similar affairs yearly if possible. The occasion tomorrow night will be that of the first meeting of the newspaper men this summer.

BELL IS VICTIM OF RAIL

Monongahela Man Run Over by Pittsburg--Charleroi Car

HIS NECK IS CUT OFF

John Bell, 34 years old and unmarried, employed in the Black Diamond mine was instantly killed about 11 o'clock Saturday night when he was struck by a street car on the Pittsburg and Charleroi line at Monongahela.

The accident occurred near Sarah street in Monongahela. Earlier in the evening Bell in company with William Tempest of Monongahela had been at Manown. They returned to Monongahela about 10:40 o'clock and Tempest told Bell he would go to the home of a sister and arrange for a place to stay over night. When Tempest returned to the spot he saw a crowd and found the body of his friend.

The car which was supposed to have struck Bell was in charge of Frank Dupont. The car stopped at Sarah street and also at the next stop Warren street. The body of Bell was found between these two streets. The next car was flagged at Sarah street by a woman who said the car before had killed a man.

It is supposed that Bell had lain down beside the track and the journal box of the passing car struck him. Half of his head was cut off and his left arm was mangled.

The body was removed to the morgue of Bebout & Yohe and Coroner Heffran was notified.

SIX PLAYERS ARE CAPTURED IN RAID

Police Enter Supposed Gambling Place Early Sunday Morning--John Does and John Smiths in the Party

As one of the first evidences of a campaign for the cleaning up of the borough, a raid was made Sunday morning at 3:30 on a supposed gambling place on the second floor of the building at 327 Fallowfield avenue, and six were arrested. The raid was made by Chief of Police C. W. Albright and Patrolmen Gus Brickner and James Murphy.

Reports had been heard of games going on regularly at the place and citizens informed Chief of Police Albright of the fact and assisted him in making preparations for the raid. The house was surrounded. When he knocked at the door leading to the kitchen of the place the six were seated around a table being discernible through a window.

Little effort was made by any of the players to escape, they realizing it was useless. They were taken to the lockup and each left a forfeit of $10. Not one showed up for a hearing. The names given for the police docket were John Doe, John Smith and the like, though it is rumored that those arrested are well known.

CHALLENGE IS TO CHURCH SAYS PASTOR

Rev. F. A. Richards Discusses Socialism and Its Significance--Way to Meet Challenge ir to Beat Them to It

"The Challenge of Socialism" is the subject of an unusual sermon preached Sunday night by Rev. F. A. Richards at the Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. Richards first defined Socialism and gave a list of things that the Socialists were striving to improve. One of these he said was low wages. "It isn't much wonder some men are driven to drink," said Rev. Richards. "They make in some places $2.00 a day working from Monday morning until Sunday night.

"Socialists believe what they preach and live it," he stated. "That is more than the white-livered professing Christian will do. Socialism challenges the humanity of the Christian church. The way to meet the challenge is to 'beat them to it.' The challenge of Socialism is to what you profess and live up to your belief. The challenge of Socialism is to study things and think things. Election time draws near and it concerns us just as much who shall be burgess of Charleroi as it does who shall be at the head of the nation. The challenge of Socialism is that we take note of these things."

Rev. Richards predicted that at the next general election a Socialistic vote of 2,000,000 would be cast.

DONORA STEEL WORKS' SUPERINTENDENT DIES

Ephriam Bayard Expires After Illness of One Week

SICK OF APPENDICITIS

Operation is Performed and Complications Develop--Body is Brought Home

Following an illness of less than a week, Ephriam Beyard aged 53 general superintendent of the Donora Steel company, and one of the best known residents of Donora, died Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the West Penn hospital, Pittsburg. Mr. Bayard had not been feeling well and on last Monday evening summoned a physician. His ailment was diagnosed as appendicitis and on Tuesday he was taken to the hospital, whehre an operation was performed. Peritonitis developed, causing his death.

Mr. Bayard was born at Waukegan, Wisconsin. He was literally a self made man. He began his career in the steel mills at the age of nine. He had worked his way up from the bottom and had gained the reputation of being one of the best informed and most efficient steel men in the Pittsburg district.

Mr. Bayard had been superintendent of the Donora mills since November, 1908, coming from Cleveland, O. Since coming to Donora he had taken an active interest in the town and its welfare. He was deeply interested in every public movement and was particularly interested in the welfare of boys. For some time past he had made it a point to give personal attention to boys under the care of the juvenile court and had rendered valuable assistance to the Donora representatives of the juvenile court committee of the county. Mr. Bayard was a member of the Presbyterian church of Donora.

There survive Mr. Bayard's wife and one son, Max at home. Mr. Bayard's mother and several brothers and sisters also survive. The body was brought to the home at Donora Sunday.

WAGON NOT IN WRONG

So Argues Garbage Collector Who Says it is Garbage

GIVES AN EXPLANATION

Not the garbage wagon, but the garbage itself is "in wrong" according to garbage collector Harry Perry, who makes an explanation of the causes of the awful smells which insult the oldfactory organs when the wagon makes its rounds. Mr. Perry says:

"The garbage man has no contract with the borough to prohibit the stench of garbage that has been reserved for six and eight weeks. If my critics would investigate a little they would find out that it is age that causes putridity and stench of garbage as garbage undoubtedly does not smell when gathered from the table. Even after it has been gathered for three or four days it would not be necessary to hold the nose with a napkin to pervent the smell from being plainly offensive." Quit reserving your garbage and the problem will be solved."

Mr. Perry is of the opinion that the people should permit of their garbage being removed oftener as he shows in his statement. This he thinks would remove the source of complaints.

May Now Build Bridge.

Right has been granted by the state to the commissioners of Washington and Fayette counties to build a bridge across the Monongahela river at Brownsville. Permission was given together with permission to various other persons to build bridges in various other places.

THE POOR MAN'S PARADISE.

The sixty-four Russian men and women who have been touring this country to study economic conditions and who are now in Philadelphia, have been greatly impressed with the neat, comfortable little houses in which many of the wage-earners live, there.

"I have seen," said one of the women, as quoted editorially in the Harrisburg Telegraph, "day laborers living in homes that would require an income of $5,000 a year in Russia. They had every modern convenience and were as cosy as could be."

If our Russian guests had gone into the tenement districts of Philadelphia, as doubtless they did, they would have seen the other side of the picture. There they would find their countrymen and immigrants from other foreign lands living amid surroundings which we consider horrible in America, but which to the newcomers, are convenient and desirable.

It is our very superiority in the matter of accommodations for the poor which makes us so slow in attaining everywhere the American ideal. There are always among us a sufficient number of newly-arrived immigrants from countries where the workers live like animals, to populate our worst tenements and perpetuate our disease-breeding neighborhoods.

The United States has often been referred to as "the country of the rich man," but there is no other nation in the world which makes such a specialty of catering to the poor man. The most powerful interests are constantly at work to improve the condition of those who toil with their hands and we feel safe in saying that nowhere in the universe has this movement received such hearty support from the employers of labor.

Where else will we find the model conditions existing in factories like the Dayton Cash Register plant, for example? In what other countries are the employers petitioning the lawmaking bodies to appoint commissions for the purpose of drafting uniform laws to shorten the hours of labor, promote the health and happiness of workers and improve their home surroundings?

Mme. Yavonsky is right when she says that labor's lot here is the happiest in the world, and the best feature of it is that we have never been willing to consider it the happiest possible.

SANE PLANS NEEDED.

Many delegates from all over the world will be present at the international congress on school hygiene to be held in Buffalo, N. Y., this summer. Many things of vast importance to the school children will be discussed. So remarks the Washington Reporter.

This is all as it should be but it is to be hoped that the speakers before this great meeting where some 300 delegates will be present will confine themselves to practical, sensible things. Too often in gatherings of this sort some persons seek the limelight by making wild, impossible suggestions and outlining plans whose only recommendation is their unusual character.

The health of school children is a vitality important matter. It is a subject requiring study and work. The health of the school children must be preserved if we are to preserve the coming generation. But the things needed are practical and sane suggestions and plans. Crazy schemes of impractical nature should have no part in these discussions and should have no part in the consideration of school boards here or elsewhere.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"No, gentlemen," replied the man with the 'yaller' whiskers as he was asked to take a hand in a game of poker, "I beg you to excuse me. I'm not against card playing on principle, but five years ago I made a vow never to play again."

"For your mother's sake?" queried the glue factory traveler.

"Oh no. My mother died many years ago. I was on the C. B. and Q. train one day and we made upa game of poker. There were five of us and I had never had such luck in my life. One of the players was from Montana and he finally put up 200 acres of land against $200 in cash."

"And you won?"

"He had a full house and yet I bluffed him on a pair of tens. It turned out that the land was a narrow strip of high mountains and not worth a cent. It was an old mining claim, I believe."

"But where does the vow come in?"

"I will tell you. After holding that land three years I sold it to a Chicago stone syndicate, and the men were put to work quarrying stone. A blast started an avalanche and not only ten workmen lost their lives, but a party of twenty-five of my fellow creatures. Had I not won that land it would not have been sold for a quarry."

"Yes, we see," said the glue man. "The other fellow would probably have used it for a toboggan slide?"

"I believe that was his plan, sir."

"And if he did the slide might have busted some day and fifty people been hurled into eternity."

"Do you think it possible?"

"Not only possible but extremely probable. Yes, a hundred people might have been involved in the awful disaster. I figure it that you have saved the lives of about fifty people and are entitled to great credit."

"Do you really assure me?"

"We all do."

"Then gentlemen, I will cancel my vow and take a hand in!"

And at the end of an hour every man in the game against him was dead broke and cussing the winner's luck.—Chicago Daily News.

McCarty got into an argument with Casey about the efficacy of prayer.

"Oi can't see that there's anything in it," asserted Casey. "Oi never got anything out of it.'

"Well," said McCarty, "don't you know when there's a war it's always the people that pray that wins the foights?"

"How about the Chinese?" asked Casey. "They're great people to pray and yet they get licked and licked bad."

"Oh, well," explainde McCarty, "no wan could understand thim whin they prayed."

As it stands now, with Shortstop Flannerly added to the lineup, the team looks well balanced. Keener, the new right gardener, has shown himself capable of covering his share of the outfield territory, and he completes a strong combination with Kaiser and Conway.

"With Flannerly added to the infield the barrier around the pillows now looks good to Phillips. Early in the season it was figured that Vandagraft wouldn't do. The little second sacker was making a heap of kicks out there and he got the team into lots of trouble. But he's struck his stride now, and is playing nice ball. With Alcock at his natural hangout around third base and Flannerly gobbling 'em up at short, the infield certainly appears much stronger. As for Biddy Dolan—well, he hasn't a peer in the league at first base. And since Cates has been put where he belongs on the pitching staff, the Hoosier Feds should worry about that department. What Phillips needs is another catcher, and he has lines out for one now. Once he lands a backstop Phillips will call it quits on the scouting stuff for the time being."

In a letter to a member of the Mail staff, Manager Phillips extends his greetings to his Charleroi friends and says that he is in the fight to stay. His team, he states was badly crippled for three weeks, yet at the same time was going well. With recent acquisitions his club is now evenly balanced and in the best of shape for the finish.

BEGAN GREAT CAREERS EARLY

English and American Actresses Who Showed Possession of Genius When They Were Children.

It has been said that seldom do infant stage prodigies fulfill the expectations of the future. As a matter of fact, however, many of our leading actresses began their stage careers when they were children.

Ellen Terry, for instance, made her first appearance in "A Winter's Tale" when she was eight; her sister Kate when she was seven; her niece Beatrice when she was ten, and another niece, Minnie, when she was three; while Marion Terry played Ophelia when she was seventeen. Winifred Emery (Mrs. Cyril Maude) made her first appearance on the stage in "The Green Bushes" when she was eight, and gained her first success when she was seventeen.

Referring to American actresses, one might mention Maud Adams, perhaps one of the most successful of Mr. Frohman's "stars," who first appeared on the stage when she was a baby of nine months old, and was a favorite at the age of sixteen. Julia Marlowe made her first appearance in a juvenile production of "H. M. S. Pinafore" when she was twelve; while Maud Fealy first played when she was three.

TURNED THE JOKE ON BISHOP

Great Episcopal Churchman Found That Rabbi Could Give as Good a Shot as He Got.

Mrs. Champ Clark, who is as well known for her brilliancy in conversation as her husband, the speaker of the house of representatives, is for his fame in politics, tells this story:

The late Bishop Potter of New York had a most unclerical relish for practical jokes and pointed anecdotes. His cosmopolitan spirit loved men and things, and nothing pleased him better than to gather a group of congenial spirits about him and swap jokes.

One day he met a friend, a distinguished Jewish rabbi, and said to him in great seriousness:

"Rabbi, I am greatly worried about a dream I had the other night. I dreamed I died and went to the Jewish heaven. And who do you suppose were the only occupants?"

"I don't know, I'm sure," said the rabbi.

"Pawnbrokers and second-hand clothing men," laughed the bishop.

The rabbi said nothing.

Shortly after, however, he met the bishop. "Why bishop," he said, "I had a dream myself the other night."

"Yes," said the bishop uneasily; "and what did you dream?"

"I dreamed I went to the Christian heaven."

"Well," pursued Potter, bracing himself, "who did you find there?"

"Nobody," answered the rabbi.—Popular Magazine.

WHY THE PASTOR WAS LATE

On the Way to a Wedding He Met a Deer, and Stopped to Kill the Animal.

The Rev. H. H. Thomas, pastor of the Baptist church at Greenwood and Womley, started to Greenwood to officiate at a wedding, and, says the Arkansas Gazette, after a six mile drive from Mount Ida he saw a large deer chased by a pack of hounds.

The preacher forgot about the wedding and followed the deer. He approached the large buck, which came to him, and they "locked horns." The deer lost his footing, and so did the minister, and they went tumbling down the hillside together.

"I came up on top," said the preacher, "and in some way I got my knife open and cut the deer's throat, and while holding to the long, shaggy horns the deer gave a big leap with me and jumped into the water, carrying me with him. There he died in a few minutes and I pulled him out, got a wagon and hauled the deer into Mount Ida."

The preacher, after being three hours late, telephoned to Greenwood, and, buying a new suit of clothes, served at the wedding of W. R. Burt and Miss Lillian Anderson.

Compliments of the Season.

Whether or not this story, sent to the London Telegraph by its Paris correspondent, is fact or invention, it has so delightful a flavor of the Orient that every one will feel that it ought to be true:

When the sultan of Turkey gave orders for the mobilization of his troops he sent the king of Bulgaria a sack of millet with the following letter:

"Ferdinand Effendi. Mobilize if you like, but be assured that there are as many soldiers in Turkey as there are grains of millet in this sack. Now, if you wish, declare war."

Ferdinand's reply was in kind. He sent a much smaller sack, filled with tiny grains of the hottest red pepper of the country. With it went the following letter:

"Dear Sultan. The Bulgarians are not numerous, it is true, but be assured that to stick your nose into their affairs is like sticking it into our national condiment. Try it and see. They will sting you so sharply that the whole of Asia will not be able to save you."—Youth's Companion.

Wealth in Music.

In view of its strange influence over man's heart and life, it is no wonder that the greatest minds of all ages have taxed all language to express their conception of the full value of music. Our education is too gross and utilitarian. We have made too much of the intellect and too little of the feelings. No parent has done his full duty to his child until during the precious memory years before sixteen he has given the child's mind as a precious memory forever the great patriotic hymns of home and native land, the folklore hymns of his race, the great classic hymns that sing of man's need and the pathos of God's love, the sublimity of immortality and mystery that lies beyond. For music has full power of pathos and sublimity and can lift man into the ether of the upper world, can wash the dust from the soul's wings and make it triumphant.—N. D. Hillis.

Lack of Space.

Charles H. Taylor, Jr., one of the owners of the Boston Globe, was very busy in his office one morning when there appeared before him Charles S. Howard, the dramatic editor of the paper, with a big kick about his criticisms having been cut down so that they filled a very little space.

"Can't help it," said Taylor crisply. "The paper is crowded with advertisements, and they mean money. We must keep that dramatic stuff cut down."

"Well, by thunder!" exploded Howard. "I guess next year you'll be ordering me to write wordless criticisms."

"Oh, no," said Taylor lightly; "not wordless—just spaceless."

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"—stamped on every biscuit—means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.

NATIONAL BISCUIT COMPANY

IS DEAN OF ALL INDIANS

Sitting Elk, Mighty Warrior Who Never Killed White Man, Is Oldest Redman.

Oldest of all Indians in the United States, Sitting Elk, former chief of the Ogallalla Sioux, is visiting in Denver, the guest of the white man, against whom he always refused to make war.

For almost a century he has been a leader among his people, but, wiser than other chiefs, he early realized that the red man was doomed and at every opportunity he counseled peace with the palefaces.

He could well afford to do so, for his people knew he was no coward.

"I have never killed a white man," he proudly boasts, "but I have fought many battles, and I have done many brave deeds in my long life of ninety-six years. I was but seventeen when I waylaid and killed my first enemy. That was a very brave deed. Since then I have killed many, many enemies."

Sitting Elk is a total abstainer. He smokes cigarettes but insists he has none of the other bad habits of the white man. He is childless, the last of his line, but he expects to live for many years more—to be hale and hearty long after he has passed the century mark.

Sitting Elk moves tall and stately among his kinsmen, and puffs his pipe with a complacency unruffled by thoughts of any immediate journey to the happy hunting grounds.

Bright of eye, keen of mind, the old warrior dons paint and feathers for his appearance with the younger members of his tribe in the headlong dashes across the amphitheater at the stock yards, and rides with an abandon which defies the spectator to single him from the reckless redskins who have but one-fourth his years to their credit.

Bomb Explodes After 58 Years.

A citizen of this town was wont to show his friends a bomb which was thrown into the town when the British attacked it during the Crimean war, and to remark that English bombs are not much good, as this one failed to explode.

The relic was kept in the bathroom. A servant put it into the empty Russian stove of huge size. Suddenly the bomb burst the other day, wrecking the house, but causing no casualties. It had the best of the joke after fifty-eight years.

The amusement has caused much amusement here, one local wag remarking that the English bomb burst to seal the Anglo-Russian friendship.—Petropavlovsk Corr. Pall Mall Gazette.

Eight Who Deserve Slaps.

Eight men who deserve to be slapped on the face: He who despises a man of power; he who enters a house uninvited and unwelcomed; he who gives orders in a house not his own; he who takes a seat above his position; he who speaks to one who does not listen to him; he who intrudes on the conversation of others; he who seeks favors from the ungenerous; and he who expects love from his enemies.—From a Persian Saying.

Real Test.

There is something finer than to do right against inclination, and that is to have an inclination to do right. There is something nobler than reluctant obedience, and that is joyful obedience. The rank of virtue is not measured by its disagreeableness, but by its sweetness to the heart that loves it. The real test of character is joy. For what you rejoice in, that you love. And what you love, that you are like.—Henry van Dyke.

Be Careful in Speech.

If in our speech we would need consider how our words will affect those to whom they are spoken—if we would try to hear them with their ears and consider how they accept in their hearts, there would not be much passionate or unadvised speech; certainly there would be few spirits wounded or lives embittered by the words of our lips.—W. G. Horder.

Accentuating Plant Characters.

It has been found that under red light (light through red glass) plants become more robust than in any other. They also become more pronounced in their chief characters—the leafy plant becomes more leafy, all shades of green become more pronounced, the sensitive plant more sensitive and all in every way become highly specialized.

Pigeon Descended Chimney.

When a resident in the London road, Reading, England, came downstairs recently, he found perched on the top bar of the grate in the drawing-room a pigeon which had come down the chimney. It had brought with it a considerable quantity of soot. When the occupier opened the windows the pigeon made its escape.

Food Kept Warm.

A flatiron stand will be found useful on the range to keep the contents of a saucepan warm without danger of burning, says the Indianapolis News. It is also useful when one desires food to simmer; there is then no fear of sticking or burning on a hot stove.

Unfortunate English.

The general impression that the Englishman's life is rather prosy is supported by the statement of a Londoner who visited at Clay Center. He said he never had tasted fried chicken or strawberry shortcake, the two being unknown to the culinary art in his country.—Kansas City Star.

"Bait" Was Good.

"How did you come to buy that worthless mining stock?" "Well, you see, I thought it was all right. The man who sold it to me had mahogany furniture in his office, tall brass cuspidors and a swell rug on his floor."—Detroit Free Press.

Adam's Satisfaction.

Adam was surveying the animals he was called upon to name. He smiled with satisfaction as he remarked: "Whatever else may happen, there never will be a shortage in the supply of party emblems."

Ideals the Guiding Star.

Ideals are like stars; you will not succeed in touching them with your hands. But, like the seafaring man on deserts of water, you choose them as your guides, and following them reach your destiny.—Carl Schurz.

All Have a Duty.

Every man or woman is one of mankind's dear possessions; to his or her just brain, and kind heart and active hands, mankind intrusts some of its hopes for the future.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Changing Hues.

"You are in love with a blonde," remarked the fortune teller, "but after you marry her, beware of a brunette who—" "No danger," remarked the patron; "it's the same woman."—The Ladies' World.

The Average Man.

The average man will hurry to a veterinary when his pet dog gets sick, but he is willing to rely on almost any kind of "dope" when he isn't feeling well himself.

Improved Safety Razor.

The principle of the double-bladed plane has been applied to safety razors, so that the operator shaves with two blades at the same time.

Little Satisfaction.

A mummy gets blamed little satisfaction from winning the endurance prize.—Atchison Globe.

Evil of Insincerity.

Of all the evil spirts abroad at this hour in the world, insincerity is the most dangerous.—Froude.

RESTORED INN OF AUERBACH

Tavern Where Goethe Placed One of Scenes in "Faust" Has Been Reconstructed.

The latest concrete evidence of literary devotion in Germany is the thorough reconstruction of the "Tavern of Auerbach," where Goethe placed one of the most vivid scenes of "Faust." It is melancholy to reflect that nothing more remains of the old building, since after a complete demolition the architects have constructed a wholly modern building on the site, but care has been taken to preserve intact the cellar, which has been for fully a century an object of pilgrimage for Germans, who are at once proud of their literature and fond of recherche drinking.

Painters of an "advanced" school have been commissioned to adorn the walls of the various dining rooms with scenes taken from Goethe's great drama, while to complete the new attractions it is announced that the staircase leading down to the cellar will be furnished with two bronze statues, the subject of which is unknown. The evolution of the "Tavern of Auerbach" promises to be the same as that of other like sacred places. It will probably bring in an excellent income to the restaurateur.

ENGLISH WOMEN RUN FARMS

Through Co-Operation Special Provision Is Made for Them in Some Sections.

Seventy-five enthusiastic women farmers met recently at the Criterion restaurant, the occasion being the fifth annual dinner of the Women's International union. Mrs. Wilton Althusen presided.

Miss Emerson maintained that women have not the same facilities, capital, and so forth, as men.

"The remedy," she said, "lies in co-operation. A company has obtained a farm at Heathfield, in Sussex, and has divided it into small holdings for women farmers. Bungalows are provided for the tenants, whose agreements secure fixity of tenure and who have perfect liberty in developing their land as they like. At the same time they have the benefit of expert advice. The company markets all the produce, and is able to obtain better terms than could the individual tenants."—London Mail.

Ozone as a Preservative.

An important improvement in the technique of cold storage has recently been introduced in Germany, viz., the use of ozone as a supplement to the ordinary process of refrigeration. In the cold storage rooms attached to slaughter houses the temperature of the air is liable to be raised to a serious extent when the doors are left open for any reason; for instance, when meat is being put in or taken out. The micro-organisms of putrefaction immediately become active under such circumstances, and the keeping quality of the meat is diminished. Now it is well known that ozone is a powerful germicide. If the air of the cold-storage rooms is ozonized, its temperature may be raised without injury to the contents. This has been proved by numerous experiments, and ozonizing apparatus has now been installed in the abatoirs at Cologne, Potsdam, Brandenburg, Berlin, Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Dusseldorf, Freiburg (Silesia), Aix-la-Chapelle and Erfurt; in a cold storage depot at Hamburg, and in various dairies, poultry and game stores and fish establishments.

To Put Out Oil Fires.

Two Danish inventors have found a way to put out oil fires by applying carbonic acid that is foaming violently. The foam is produced by a mixture of two liquids, and it is said that when it is thrown on burning substances, such as oils, benzine and tar, it spreads rapidly over the surface and puts out the flames by cutting off the air. Many tanks that contain oil or other highly inflammable liquids are now permanently fitted with perforated pipes, through which the foaming mixture can be applied directly to the surface of the burning material. Hitherto fires in oil tanks have been allowed to burn themselves out or the contents have been drawn out from below and wasted. According to Chambers Journal many private and government institutions have adopted the new system.

He Meant a Wee Nap, Not a Wee Nip.

After Charles Myers, a Mason (Mo.) barber, had finished up the stranger he raised the chair, and his customers head fell over to one side. The barber straightened him up and shook him a little.

"You were asleep," said Charley.

"So I was—so I was," agreed the gentleman in the chair. "Well, you'll have to come 'round to my place and take one on me."

"I don't drink," returned Charley.

"Neither do I. I'm the new preacher at the First Street church."—New York World.

It Will Save Time.

They took an ocean voyage for their honeymoon. The second day out "dearie" was experiencing the unreliability of an ocean that was guaranteed to be without variableness or shadow of turning and wondering if "hubbie" could by any human effort obtain a position abroad when "hubbie" entered the stateroom.

"It is lunch time, dearie; shall I have yours brought here or will you try to eat it on deck?"

"No, love; have it thrown overboard. It will save time and trouble."

CHARLEROI LOSES BY BIG SCORE

Last Game of Series Claimed by Monongahela Independents

CLAIM CHAMPIONSHIP

Illuminative and speculative baseball was played at the ball grounds Saturday afternoon. Illuminative because of the illustration furnished of just how badly it is possible for the Charleroi Independents to be beaten; speculative because of the way in which it was accomplished. The Monongahela Independents came to Charleroi determined to take everything in sight as their share in the Monongahela valley championship, it being the third in a series of three games. They did leave us our new Federal building and fragments of our honor, but even that furnished us little comfort. The extraction of the game was not painless. It would have come easier had they given gas.

Willis Humphries, brother of Bert and from California, essayed to keep the redeyed Monongalians at a respectful distance. Willis nobly performed and worked hard, yet his dignified, not to say formal advances were received by the impolite crowd from down river with a positive boisterous sort of glee. They familiarized themselves with his offerings the first inning, and then loafed on the job until the fifth.

And such a fifth. No worse has been sprung in the National league since Pop Anson was a little boy. Willis was not so much to blame as other folks scattered at intervals throughout various parts of the pasture. Everybody hit the ball for Monongahela as a matter of course, and nearly everybody in the field that got their hands on the same old decorated horsehide tried to play fancy stunts with it as a matter of course. Fourteen batters batted beneficient ball. Still there were only six hits made. Finally in the hope that it might change the luck Manager Mathers called Bert Osborne to the mound relieving Humphries. That failed to phase Moron. They smacked the ball all the same. In the sixth they manipulated four runs on four hits, one man hit by a pitcher, two errors, a base on balls and a stolen base. In the eighth they caught one run on a double and a single.

Westerwick, a great big, raw-boned, nearly handsome specimen of Pittsburg humanity, southpawed the Charleroi boys out of scores. Five hits were all they were able to secure, and the home folks were fortunate to be let off with that. Westerwick pitches for the Alling-Cory team in Pittsburg when he isn't out increasing his bank account by pitching elsewhere. The score:

GETTYSBURG PICTURES AT THE COYLE

Announcement is being made today of a special picture of the Gettysburg reunion of veterans of the Civil war that has been secured for production at the Coyle Theatre tomorrow night. The film is 1,000 feet long, showing the various events transpiring during the reunion at the noted Pennsylvania battlegound. Among the scenes shown are those of Gov. J. K. Tener, of Pennsylvania and President Woodrow Wilson bowing to the multitude and acknowledging applause. The picture, it is asserted tells the tale of the reunion far better than it could be told by pen, strikingly portraying the most interesting occurrences.

Pennies.

That Americans are careless of their small change is evidenced by the fact that of the 150,000,000 pennies annually sent out from the Philadelphia mint only a small percentage are ever accounted for afterward.

It is thought that but a very small percentage of pennies lost in the streets are ever found, since they lack luster and fail to catch the eye as does a silver coin. The chances are that they are swept up with rubbish and so, for the most part, lost as coins.

County fairs and shows of various kinds mutilate thousands of pennies every year. At the fairs one may see a machine that will flatten a cent and at the same time emboss a souvenir view of the event.

Hundreds of thousands of pennies are carried out of the United States by tourists, who leave them abroad. A year or two ago 100,000 of them were shipped to Cuban bankers and placed in circulation among the laboring classes in Cuba. The American copper runs a close second to the pin, of which millions are lost every year.

New York's Largest Oak.

The largest oak of which there is any record in New York state formerly stood a short distance from the town of Geneseo, and it is famous in history as the spot where the big tree treaty was signed. It was made with the Seneca tribe of Indiana by Robert Morris, acting for a land company, in 1797. This was the same Robert Morris who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. The tree was sometimes called the Wadsworth oak, as the log house of the original settler, William Wadsworth, stood nearby and was used as the council house during the treaty negotiations. In 1857 the big tree fell down due to decay. Its trunk near the ground was 27 feet in circumference, and estimates were made that it was close to 1,000 years old.

Cave Dwellers Abroad.

Southern Tunis boasts of a houseless town having a population of 5,000 people. They are troglodytes, whose fathers before them lived in similar caves.

Wise Precaution.

Shopper—I want to buy a necktie suitable for my husband. Salesman—Sorry, madam, but we are not permitted to sell neckties to women who are unaccompanied by men.—Puck.

Community in News.

At a friend's southern hunting lodge his wife has learned that her "ring-up" on the telephone is accompanied by the click of receivers all along the line. Every one is obviously listening to what she says. On one occasion a telegram was telephoned to the lodge, and the following day, when her husband met a rural neighbor on the road, the latter drew rein to converse.

"Mr. Grey," said he, "I didn't ketch th' fust part o' that telegram we got yeste'day."

Mr. Grey accordingly enlightened his ignorance forthwith.—New York World.

Farmer's Suggestion.

A Florida farmer who was raising strawberries for the market sent a shipment to New York and the commission merchant wrote back that the berries were too ripe, consequently poor prices and small return checks, so next time the grower picked them earlier and the results were about the same, as the New York man said they were too green for the market; so the next shipment the man pulled up the plants by the roots, packed them in boxes and said, "You can pick them when just right for your particular market."

Made Dogs and Rats Fight.

For keeping premises in Soar Lane, Leicester, for dog and rat fighting, Walter Manship was at Leicester yesterday fined £5 under the protection of animals act, and for assisting him Ernest Manship and Albert Martin of Leicester, Joseph Ward of Hinckley and James Mason of Birmingham were fined £1 each. It was stated that on Boxing day terrier dogs were placed in a rat pit and a number of rats were killed. All the competing dogs were badly bitten and in one competition two rats were seen hanging from the bleeding jaws of a dog. —London Mail.

Water Colors.

Bodies of water take on different colors at different times. The intense blue that is sometime noticed is often nothing more than the reflection of a clear sky from the surface of brown river water. But men that have studied the sea say that the water is bluest when it is most salty. They say that in such salty places as the Gulf of Mexico and the Mediterranean sea the blue is caused by the salty quality and not by the summer skies. The sea in the northern oceans is green rather than blue.

If you have ever visited a natatorium, where the water for swimming is held in a great white tiled tank, you must have noticed the color. When the surface of the water is untroubled the color is a deep green, except where direct sunlight strikes it and turns it to a brilliant olive. But let a swimmer once disturb the surface and seed little waves rippling in every direction, and the green disappears, to be replaced by a blue like that of the sky. Yet if you catch up some of this water in your hand you will find that it is colorless.

Even the Chanticleer.

Clarence was leaving early that night. The cuckoo had just sounded the eleventh hour. In the back yard the family rooster uttered a maudlin crow. "Clarence," called her father from an upper window, "will it trouble you to step around back of the house and throttle that rooster? He heard the door close and he thinks it's day light."

Lemon Hint.

Instead of throwing away hard, dry lemons, put them in a pan of hot water and set it where it will maintain about the same degree of heat without boiling for two hours. When taken out and dried the lemons will be as soft and juicy and rich in flavor as though they had never grown hard. —McCall's Magazine.

INDIANAPOLIS TEAM WORKING IN GOOD SHAPE

Bill Phillips Indianapolis Federals are still engaged in the dignified pastime of adding to their pennant chances out in Indianapolis and the people there are getting prouder than ever of Bill and his outfit. This fact is proven by the following clipping of a story written by Jack Velock in the Indianapolis Evening Sun:

"Five other managers in the Federal league are trying to slow Bill Phillips up, but Bill won't "whoa." He is leadin' them these Hoosier Feds on and on and he's got his glims glued on that gonfalon, so there's no chance to get his attention on anything else. Bill says he's figuring on finishing the season with a better lead over the nearest club than he has at present, an dthat means that he has a few cards left to play when the time comes.

"The Hoosiers, like all ball clubs, take their slumps now and then. But after they got over a slump they turn right around and wallop the tar out of everything in sight. They've got more pepper than a herd of Texas steers on a stampede. A few wallops don't seem to slow 'em up a bit and that's one reason why they seem to have such a good chance to cop.

To Entertain at the Park

Eldora Amusement Company to be Host to Newspaper Men of Valley

On Tuesday evening the Eldora Amusement company will entertain the members of the Monongahela Valley Press Association and a few friends at the second annual groundhog supper at Eldora park. Last summer the Eldora management entertained at the first groundhog supper at which time newspaper men from the valley and a number of street railway men were present. It was decided to hold similar affairs yearly if possible. The occasion tomorrow night will be that of the first meeting of the newspaper men this summer.

BELL IS VICTIM OF RAIL

Monongahela Man Run Over by Pittsburg--Charleroi Car

HIS NECK IS CUT OFF

John Bell, 34 years old and unmarried, employed in the Black Diamond mine was instantly killed about 11 o'clock Saturday night when he was struck by a street car on the Pittsburg and Charleroi line at Monongahela.

The accident occurred near Sarah street in Monongahela. Earlier in the evening Bell in company with William Tempest of Monongahela had been at Manown. They returned to Monongahela about 10:40 o'clock and Tempest told Bell he would go to the home of a sister and arrange for a place to stay over night. When Tempest returned to the spot he saw a crowd and found the body of his friend.

The car which was supposed to have struck Bell was in charge of Frank Dupont. The car stopped at Sarah street and also at the next stop Warren street. The body of Bell was found between these two streets. The next car was flagged at Sarah street by a woman who said the car before had killed a man.

It is supposed that Bell had lain down beside the track and the journal box of the passing car struck him. Half of his head was cut off and his left arm was mangled.

The body was removed to the morgue of Bebout & Yohe and Coroner Heffran was notified.

SIX PLAYERS ARE CAPTURED IN RAID

Police Enter Supposed Gambling Place Early Sunday Morning--John Does and John Smiths in the Party

As one of the first evidences of a campaign for the cleaning up of the borough, a raid was made Sunday morning at 3:30 on a supposed gambling place on the second floor of the building at 327 Fallowfield avenue, and six were arrested. The raid was made by Chief of Police C. W. Albright and Patrolmen Gus Brickner and James Murphy.

Reports had been heard of games going on regularly at the place and citizens informed Chief of Police Albright of the fact and assisted him in making preparations for the raid. The house was surrounded. When he knocked at the door leading to the kitchen of the place the six were seated around a table being dissatisfied through a window.

Little effort was made by any of the players to escape, they realizing it was useless. They were taken to the lockup and each left a forfeit of $10. Not one showed up for a hearing. The names given for the police docket were John Doe, John Smith and the like, though it is rumored that those arrested are well known.

CHALLENGE IS TO CHURCH SAYS PASTOR

Rev. F. A. Richards Discusses Socialism and Its Significance--Way to Meet Challenge ir to Beat Them to It

"The Challenge of Socialism" is the subject of an unusual sermon preached Sunday night by Rev. F. A. Richards at the Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. Richards first defined Socialism and gave a list of things that the Socialists were striving to improve. One of these he said was low wages. "It isn't much wonder some men are driven to drink," said Rev. Richards. "They make in some places $2.00 a day working from Monday morning until Sunday night.

"Socialists believe what they preach and live it," he stated. "That is more than the white-livered professing Christian will do. Socialism challenges the humanity of the Christian church. The way to meet the challenge is to 'beat them to it.' The challenge of Socialism is to what you profess and live up to your belief. The challenge of Socialism is to study things and think things. Election time draws near and it concerns us just as much who shall be burgess of Charleroi as it does who shall be at the head of the nation. The challenge of Socialism is that we take note of these things."

Rev. Richards predicted that at the next general election a Socialistic vote of 2,000,000 would be cast.

WAGON NOT IN WRONG

So Argues Garbage Collector Who Says it is Garbage

GIVES AN EXPLANATION

Not the garbage wagon, but the garbage itself is "in wrong" according to garbage collector Harry Perry, who makes an explanation of the causes of the awful smells which insult the oldfactory organs when the wagon makes its rounds. Mr. Perry says:

"The garbage man has no contract with the borough to prohibit the stench of garbage that has been reserved for six and eight weeks. If my critics would investigate a little they would find out that it is age that causes putridity and stench of garbage as garbage undoubtedly does not smell when gathered from the table. Even after it has been gathered for three or four days it would not be necessary to hold the nose with a napkin to pervent the smell from being plainly offensive." Quit reserving your garbage and the problem will be solved."

Mr. Perry is of the opinion that the people should permit of their garbage being removed oftener as he shows in his statement. This he thinks would remove the source of complaints.

May Now Build Bridge.

Right has been granted by the state to the commissioners of Washington and Fayette counties to build a bridge across the Monongahela river at Brownsville. Permission was given together with permission to various other persons to build bridges in various other places.

THE POOR MAN'S PARADISE.

The sixty-four Russian men and women who have been touring this country to study economic conditions and who are now in Philadelphia, have been greatly impressed with the neat, comfortable little houses in which many of the wage-earners live, there.

"I have seen," said one of the women, as quoted editorially in the Harrisburg Telegraph, "day laborers living in homes that would require an income of $5,000 a year in Russia. They had every modern convenience and were as cosy as could be."

If our Russian guests had gone into the tenement districts of Philadelphia, as doubtless they did, they would have seen the other side of the picture. There they would find their countrymen and immigrants from other foreign lands living amid surroundings which we consider horrible in America, but which to the newcomers, are convenient and desirable.

It is our very superiority in the matter of accommodations for the poor which makes us so slow in attaining everywhere the American ideal. There are always among us a sufficient number of newly-arrived immigrants from countries where the workers live like animals, to populate our worst tenements and perpetuate our disease-breeding neighborhoods.

The United States has often been referred to as "the country of the rich man," but there is no other nation in the world which makes such a specialty of catering to the poor man. The most powerful interests are constantly at work to improve the condition of those who toil with their hands and we feel safe in saying that nowhere in the universe has this movement received such hearty support from the employers of labor.

Where else will we find the model conditions existing in factories like the Dayton Cash Register plant, for example? In what other countries are the employers petitioning the law-making bodies to appoint commissions for the purpose of drafting uniform laws to shorten the hours of labor, promote the health and happiness of workers and improve their home surroundings?

Mrs. Yavonsky is right when she says that labor's lot here is the happiest in the world, and the best feature of it is that we have never been willing to consider it the happiest possible.

SANE PLANS NEEDED.

Many delegates from all over the world will be present at the international congress on school hygiene to be held in Buffalo, N. Y., this summer. Many things of vast importance to the school children will be discussed. So remarks the Washington Reporter.

This is all as it should be but it is to be hoped that the speakers before this great meeting where some 300 delegates will be present will confine themselves to practical, sensible things. Too often in gatherings of this sort some persons seek the limelight by making wild, impossible suggestions and outlining plans whose only recommendation is their unusual character.

The health of school children is a vitality important matter. It is a [illegible] health of the school children must be preserved if we are to preserve the coming generation. But the things needed are practical and sane suggestions and plans. Crazy schemes of impractical nature should have no part in these discussions and should have no part in the consideration of school boards here or elsewhere.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

"No, gentlemen," replied the man with the 'yaller' whiskers as he was asked to take a hand in a game of poker, "I beg you to excuse me. I'm not against card playing on principle, but five years ago I made a vow never to play again."

"For your mother's sake?" queried the glue factory traveler.

"Oh no. My mother died many years ago. I was on the C. B. and Q. train one day and we made upa game of poker. There were five of us and I had never had such luck in my life. One of the players was from Montana and he finally put up 200 acres of land against $200 in cash."

"And you won?"

"He had a full house and yet I bluffed him on a pair of tens. It turned out that the land was a narrow strip of high mountains and not worth a cent. It was an old mining claim, I believe."

"But where does the vow come in?"

"I will tell you. After holding that land three years I sold it to a Chicago stone syndicate, and the men were put to work quarrying stone. A blast started an avalanche and not only ten workmen lost their lives, but a party of twenty-five of my fellow creatures. Had I not won that land it would not have been sold for a quarry."

"Yes, we see," said the glue man. "The other fellow would probably have used it for a toboggan slide?"

"I believe that was his plan, sir."

"And if he did the slide might have busted some day and fifty people been hurled into eternity."

"Do you think it possible?"

"Not only possible but extremely probable. Yes, a hundred people might have been involved in the awful disaster. I figure it that you have saved the lives of about fifty people and are entitled to great credit."

"Do you really assure me?"

"We all do."

"Then gentlemen, I will cancel my vow and take a hand in!"

And at the end of an hour every man in the game against him was dead broke and cussing the winner's luck.—Chicago Daily News.

"Oi can't see that there's anything in it," asserted Casey. "Oi never got anything out of it.'

"Well," said McCarty, "don't you know when there's a war it's always the people that pray that wins the foights?"

"How about the Chinese?" asked Casey. "They're great people to pray and yet they get licked and licked bad."

"Oh, well," explainde McCarty, "no wan could understand thim whin they prayed."

As it stands now, with Shortstop Flannerly added to the lineup, the team looks well balanced. Keener, the new right gardener, has shown himself capable of covering his share of the outfield territory, and he completes a strong combination with Kaiser and Conway.

"With Flannerly added to the infield the barrier around the pillows now looks good to Phillips. Early in the season it was figured that Vandagraft wouldn't do. The little second sacker was making a heap of kicks out there and he got the team into lots of trouble. But he's struck his stride now, and is playing nice ball. With Alcock at his natural hangout around third base and Flannerly gobbling 'em up at short, the infield certainly appears much stronger. As for Biddy Dolan—well, he hasn't a peer in the league at first base. And since Cates has been put where he belongs on the pitching staff, the Hoosier Feds should worry about that department. What Phillips needs is another catcher, and he has lines out for one now. Once he lands a backstop Phillips will call it quits on the scouting stuff for the time being."

In a letter to a member of the Mail staff, Manager Phillips extends his greetings to his Charleroi friends and says that he is in the fight to stay. His team, he states was badly crippled for three weeks, yet at the same time was going well. With recent acquisitions his club is now evenly balanced and in the best of shape for the finish.

BEGAN GREAT CAREERS EARLY

English and American Actresses Who Showed Possession of Genius When They Were Children.

It has been said that seldom do infant stage prodigies fulfill the expectations of the future. As a matter of fact, however, many of our leading actresses began their stage careers when they were children.

Ellen Terry, for instance, made her first appearance in "A Winter's Tale" when she was eight; her sister Kate when she was seven; her niece Beatrice when she was ten, and another niece, Minnie, when she was three; while Marion Terry played Ophelia when she was seventeen. Winifred Emery (Mrs. Cyril Maude) made her first appearance on the stage in "The Green Bushes" when she was eight, and gained her first success when she was seventeen.

Referring to American actresses, one might mention Maud Adams, perhaps one of the most successful of Mr. Frohman's "stars," who first appeared on the stage when she was a baby of nine months old, and was a favorite at the age of sixteen. Julia Marlowe made her first appearance in a juvenile production of "H. M. S. Pinafore" when she was twelve; while Maud [illegible] first played when she was three.

TURNED THE JOKE ON BISHOP

Great Episcopal Churchman Found That Rabbi Could Give as Good a Shot as He Got.

Mrs. Champ Clark, who is as well known for her brilliancy in conversation as her husband, the speaker of the house of representatives, is for his fame in politics, tells this story:

The late Bishop Potter of New York had a most unclerical relish for practical jokes and pointed anecdotes. His cosmopolitan spirit loved men and things, and nothing pleased him better than to gather a group of congenial spirits about him and swap jokes.

One day he met a friend, a distinguished Jewish rabbi, and said to him in great seriousness:

"Rabbi, I am greatly worried about a dream I had the other night. I dreamed I died and went to the Jewish heaven. And who do you suppose were the only occupants?"

"I don't know, I'm sure," said the rabbi.

"Pawnbrokers and second-hand clothing men," laughed the bishop.

The rabbi said nothing.

Shortly after, however, he met the bishop. "Why bishop," he said, "I had a dream myself the other night."

"Yes," said the bishop uneasily; "and what did you dream?"

"I dreamed I went to the Christian heaven."

"Well," pursued Potter, bracing himself, "who did you find there?"

"Nobody," answered the rabbi.—Popular Magazine.

WHY THE PASTOR WAS LATE

On the Way to a Wedding He Met a Deer, and Stopped to Kill the Animal.

The Rev. H. H. Thomas, pastor of the Baptist church at Greenwood and Womley, started to Greenwood to officiate at a wedding, and, says the Arkansas Gazette, after a six mile drive from Mount Ida he saw a large deer chased by a pack of hounds.

The preacher forgot about the wedding and followed the deer. He approached the large buck, which came to him, and they "locked horns." The deer lost his footing, and so did the minister, and they went tumbling down the hillside together.

"I came up on top," said the preacher, "and in some way I got my knife open and cut the deer's throat, and while holding to the long, shaggy horns the deer gave a big leap with me and jumped into the water, carrying me with him. There he died in a few minutes and I pulled him out, got a wagon and hauled the deer into Mount Ida."

The preacher, after being three hours late, telephoned to Greenwood, and, buying a new suit of clothes, served at the wedding of W. R. Burt and Miss Lillian Anderson.

Compliments of the Season.

Whether or not this story, sent to the London Telegraph by its Paris correspondent, is fact or invention, it has so delightful a flavor of the Orient that every one will feel that it ought to be true:

When the sultan of Turkey gave orders for the mobilization of his troops he sent the king of Bulgaria a sack of millet with the following letter:

"Ferdinand Effendi. Mobilize if you like, but be assured that there are as many soldiers in Turkey as there are grains of millet in this sack. Now, if you wish, declare war."

Ferdinand's reply was in kind. He sent a much smaller sack, filled with tiny grains of the hottest red pepper of the country. With it went the following letter:

"Dear Sultan. The Bulgarians are not numerous, it is true, but be assured that to stick your nose into their affairs is like sticking it into our national condiment. Try it and see. They will sting you so sharply that the whole of Asia will not be able to save you."—Youth's Companion.

Wealth in Music.

In view of its strange influence over man's heart and life, it is no wonder that the greatest minds of all ages have taxed all language to express their conception of the full value of music. Our education is too gross and utilitarian. We have made too much of the intellect and too little of the feelings. No parent has done his full duty to his child until during the precious memory years before sixteen he has given the child's mind as a precious memory forever the great patriotic hymns of home and native land, the folklore hymns of his race, the great classic hymns that sing of man's need and the pathos of God's love, the sublimity of immortality and mystery that lies beyond. For music has full power of pathos and sublimity and can lift man into the ether of the upper world, can wash the dust from the soul's wings and make it triumphant.—N. D. Hillis.

Lack of Space.

Charles H. Taylor, Jr., one of the owners of the Boston Globe, was very busy in his office one morning when there appeared before him Charles S. Howard, the dramatic editor of the paper, with a big kick about his critics' stories being cut down so that they filled a very little space.

"Can't help it," said Taylor crisply. "The paper is crowded with advertisements, and they mean money. We must keep that dramatic stuff cut down."

"Well, by thunder!" exploded Howard. "I guess next year you'll be ordering me to write wordless criticisms."

"Oh, no," said Taylor lightly; "just wordless—just specimens."

It is one thing to make soda crackers that are occasionally good.

It is quite another thing to make them so that they are always better than all other soda crackers, always of unvarying goodness.

The name "Uneeda"—stamped on every biscuit—means that if a million packages of Uneeda Biscuit were placed before you, you could choose any one of them, confident that every soda cracker in that package would be as good as the best Uneeda Biscuit ever baked. Five cents.

IS DEAN OF ALL INDIANS

Sitting Elk, Mighty Warrior Who Never Killed White Man, Is Oldest Redman.

Oldest of all Indians in the United States, Sitting Elk, former chief of the Ogallalla Sioux, is visiting in Denver, the guest of the white man, against whom he always refused to make war.

For almost a century he has been a leader among his people, but, wiser than other chiefs, he early realized that the red man was doomed and at every opportunity he counseled peace with the palefaces.

He could well afford to do so, for his people knew he was no coward.

"I have never killed a white man," he proudly boasts, "but I have fought many battles, and I have done many brave deeds in my long life of ninety-six years. I was but seventeen when I waylaid and killed my first enemy. That was a very brave deed. Since then I have killed many, many enemies."

Sitting Elk is a total abstainer. He smokes cigarettes, but insists he has none of the other bad habits of the white man. He is childless, the last of his line, but he expects to live for many years more—to be hale and hearty long after he has passed the century mark.

Sitting Elk moves tall and stately among his kinsmen, and puffs his pipe with a complacency unruffled by thoughts of any immediate journey to the happy hunting grounds.

Bright of eye, keen of mind, the old warrior dons paint and feathers for his appearance with the younger members of his tribe in the headlong dashes across the amphitheater at the stock yards, and rides with an abandon which defies the spectator to single him from the reckless redskins who have but one-fourth his years to their credit.

Bomb Explodes After 58 Years.

A citizen of this town was wont to show his friends a bomb which was thrown into the town when the British attacked it during the Crimean war, and to remark that English bombs are not much good, as this one failed to explode.

The relic was kept in the bathroom. A servant put it into the empty Russian stove of huge size. Suddenly the bomb burst the other day, wrecking the house, but causing no casualties. It had the best of the joke after fifty-eight years.

The amusement has caused much amusement here, one local wag remarking that the English bomb burst to seal the Anglo-Russian friendship.—Petropavlovsk Corr. Pall Mall Gazette.

Eight Who Deserve Slaps.

Eight men who deserve to be slapped on the face: He who despises a man of power; he who enters a house uninvited and unwelcomed; he who gives orders in a house not his own; he who takes a seat above his position; he who speaks to one who does not listen to him; he who intrudes on the conversation of others; he who seeks favors from the ungenerous; and he who expects love from his enemies.—From a Persian Saying.

Real Test.

There is something finer than to do right against inclination, and that is to have an inclination to do right. There is something nobler than reluctant obedience, and that is joyful obedience. The rank of virtue is not measured by its disagreeableness, but by its sweetness to the heart that loves it. The real test of character is joy. For what you rejoice in, that you love. And what you love, that you are like.—Henry van Dyke.

Be Careful in Speech.

If in our speech we would need consider how our words will affect those to whom they are spoken—if we would try to hear them with their ears and consider how they sound in their hearts, there would not be much passionate or unadvised speech; certainly there would be few spirits wounded or lives embittered by the words of our lips.—W. G. Horder.

Accentuating Plant Characters.

It has been found that under red light (light through red glass) plants become more robust than in any other. They also become more pronounced in their chief characters—the leafy plant becomes more leafy, all shades of green become more pronounced, the sensitive plant more sensitive and all in every way become highly specialized.

Pigeon Descended Chimney.

When a resident in the London road, Reading, England, came downstairs recently, he found perched on the top bar of the grate in the drawing-room a pigeon which had come down the chimney. It had brought with it a considerable quantity of soot. When the occupier opened the windows the pigeon made its escape.

Food Kept Warm.

A flatiron stand will be found useful on the range to keep the contents of a saucepan warm without danger of burning, says the Indianapolis News. It is also useful when one desires food to simmer; there is then no fear of sticking or burning on a hot stove.

Unfortunate English.

The general impression that the Englishman's life is rather prosy is supported by the statement of a Londoner who visited at Clay Center. He said he never had tasted fried chicken or strawberry shortcake, the two being unknown to the culinary art in his country.—Kansas City Star.

"Bait" Was Good.

"How did you come to buy that worthless mining stock?" "Well, you see, I thought it was all right. The man who sold it to me had mahogany furniture in his office, tall brass cuspidors and a swell rug on his floor."—Detroit Free Press.

Adam's Satisfaction.

Adam was surveying the animals he was called upon to name. He smiled with satisfaction as he remarked: "Whatever else may happen, there never will be a shortage in the supply of party emblems."

Ideals the Guiding Star.

Ideals are like stars; you will not succeed in touching them with your hands. But, like the seafaring man on deserts of water, you choose them as your guides, and following them reach your destiny.—Carl Schurz.

All Have a Duty.

Every man or woman is one of mankind's dear possessions; to his or her just brain, and kind heart and active hands, mankind intrusts some of its hopes for the future.—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Changing Hues.

"You are in love with a blonde," remarked the fortune teller, "but after you marry her, beware of a brunette who—" "No danger," remarked the patron; "it's the same woman."—The Ladies' World.

The Average Man.

The average man will hurry to a veterinary when his pet dog gets sick, but he is willing to rely on almost any kind of "dope" when he isn't feeling well himself.

Improved Safety Razor.

The principle of the double-bladed plane has been applied to safety razors, so that the operator shaves with two blades at the same time.

Little Satisfaction.

A mummy gets blamed little satisfaction from winning the endurance prize.—Atchison Globe.

Evil of Insincerity.

Of all the evil spirits abroad at this hour in the world, insincerity is the most dangerous.—French.

RESTORED INN OF AUERB

Tavern Where Goethe Placed Scenes in "Faust" Has Been Reconstructed.

The latest concrete evidence of literary devotion in Germany is the thorough reconstruction of the "Cellern of Auerbach," where Goethe placed one of the most vivid scenes in "Faust." It is melancholy to relate that nothing more remains of the old building, since after a complete demolition the architects have constructed a wholly modern building on the site, but care has been taken to preserve intact the cellar, which has been for fully a century an object of pilgrimage for Germans, who are still once proud of their literature and fond of recherche drinking.

Painters of an "advanced" school have been commissioned to adorn the walls of the various dining rooms with scenes taken from Goethe's famous drama, while to complete the new attractions it is announced that the old staircase leading down to the cellar will be furnished with two bronze statues, the subject of which is not known. The evolution of the "Taverne of Auerbach" promises to be the event as that of other like sacred places will probably bring in an excellent income to the restaurateur.

ENGLISH WOMEN RUN FA

Through Co-Operation Special Provision Is Made for Them in Some Sections.

Seventy-five enthusiastic women farmers met recently at the Criterion restaurant, the occasion being the annual dinner of the Women's International union. Mrs. Wilton Allbut presided.

Miss Emerson maintained that women have not the same facilities, capital, and so forth, as men.

"The remedy," she said, 'lies in co-operation. A company has obtained a farm at Heathfield, in Sussex, and has divided it into small holdings for women farmers. Bungalows are provided for the tenants, whose agreements secure fixity of tenure and they have perfect liberty in developing their land as they like. At the same time they have the benefit of expert advice. The company markets all the produce, and is able to obtain better terms than could the individual tenants."—London Mail.

Ozone as a Preservative.

An important improvement in the technique of cold storage has recently been introduced in Germany, viz., the use of ozone as a supplement to the ordinary process of refrigeration. In the cold storage rooms attached to slaughter houses the temperature of the air is liable to be raised to a serious extent when the doors are left open for any reason; for instance, when meat is being put in or taken out. The micro-organisms of putrefaction immediately become active. Under such circumstances, and the keeping quality of the meat is diminished. Now it is well known that ozone is a powerful germicide. If the air of the cold-storage rooms is ozonized, its temperature may be raised without injury to the contents. This has been proved by numerous experiments, and ozonizing apparatus has now been installed in the abattoirs at Cologne, Potsdam, Brandenburg, Berlin, Frankfurt-on-the-Main, Düsseldorf, Freiburg (Silesia), Aix-la-Chapelle and Erfurt; in a cold storage depot at Hamburg, and in various dairies, poultry and game stores and fish establishments.

To Put Out Oil Fires.

Two Danish inventors have found a way to put out oil fires by applying carbonic acid that is foaming excellently. The foam is produced by the mixture of two liquids, and it is so heavy that when it is thrown on burning substances, such as oils, benzine and the like, it spreads rapidly over the surface and puts out the flames by cutting off the air. Many tanks that contain oil or other highly inflammable liquids are now permanently fitted with perforated pipes, through which the foaming mixture can be applied directly to the surface of the burning material. Hitherto fires in oil tanks have been allowed to burn themselves out or the contents have been drawn off from below and wasted. According to Chambers Journal many private and government institutions have adopted the new system.

He Meant a Wee Nap, Not a Wee Nip.

After Charles Myers, a Mason (Mo.) barber, had finished up the strange he raised the chair, and his customer's head fell over to one side. The barber straightened him up and shook him a little.

"You were asleep," said Charley.

"So I was—so I was," agreed the gentleman in the chair. "Well, you have to come 'round to my place and take one on me."

"I don't drink," returned Charley.

"Neither do I. I'm the new preacher at the First Street church."—New York World.

It Will Save Time.

They took an ocean voyage for the honeymoon. The second day out "dearie" was experiencing the unreliability of an ocean that was guaranteed to be without variableness or shadow of turning and wondering if "hubby" could by any human effort obtain a position abroad when "hubby" entered the stateroom.

"It is lunch time, dearie; shall I have yours brought here or will you try to eat it on deck?"

"No, love, here it will save time and trouble."

Charleroi's Big Store

Pennies.

That Americans are careless of their small change is evidenced by the fact that of the 150,000,000 pennies annually sent out from the Philadelphia mint only a small percentage are ever accounted for afterward.

It is thought that but a very small percentage of pennies lost in the streets are ever found, since they lack luster and fail to catch the eye as does a silver coin. The chances are that they are swept up with rubbish and so, for the most part, lost as coins.

County fairs and shows of various kinds mutilate thousands of pennies every year. At the fairs one may see a machine that will flatten a cent and at the same time emboss a souvenir view of the event.

Hundreds of thousands of pennies are carried out of the United States by tourists, who leave them abroad. A year or two ago 100,000 of them were shipped to Cuban bankers and placed in circulation among the laboring classes in Cuba. The American copper runs a close second to the pin, of which millions are lost every year.

New York's Largest Oak.

The largest oak of which there is any record in New York state formerly stood a short distance from the town of Geneseo, and it is famous in history as the spot where the big tree treaty was signed. It was made with the Seneca tribe of Indiana by Robert Morris, acting for a land company, in 1797. This was the same Robert Morris who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. The tree was sometimes called the Wadsworth oak, as the log house of the original settler, William Wadsworth, stood nearby and was used as the council house during the treaty negotiations. In 1857 the big tree fell down due to decay. Its trunk near the ground was 27 feet in circumference, and estimates were made that it was close to 1,000 years old.

Cave Dwellers Abroad.

Southern Tunis boasts of a houseless town having a population of 5,000 people. They are troglodytes, whose fathers before them lived in similar caves.

Wise Precaution.

Shopper—I want to buy a necktie suitable for my husband. Salesman—Sorry, madam, but we are not permitted to sell neckties to women who are unaccompanied by men.—Puck.

Community in News.

At a friend's southern hunting lodge his wife has learned that her "ring-up" on the telephone is accompanied by the click of receivers all along the line. Every one is obviously listening to what she says. On one occasion a telegram was telephoned to the lodge, and the following day, when her husband met a rural neighbor on the road, the latter drew rein to converse.

"Mr. Grey," said he, "I didn't ketch th' fust part o' that telegram we got yeste'day."

Mr. Grey accordingly enlightened his ignorance forthwith.—New York World.

Farmer's Suggestion.

A Florida farmer who was raising strawberries for the market sent a shipment to New York and the commission merchant wrote back that the berries were too ripe, consequently poor prices and small return checks, so next time the grower picked them earlier and the results were about the same, as the New York man said they were too green for the market; so the next shipment the man pulled up the plants by the roots, packed them in boxes and said, "You can pick them when just right for your particular market."

Made Dogs and Rats Fight.

For keeping premises in Soar Lane, Leicester, for dog and rat fighting, Walter Manship was at Leicester yesterday fined £5 under the protection of animals act, and for assisting him Ernest Manship and Albert Martin of Leicester, Joseph Ward of Hinckley and James Mason of Birmingham were fined £1 each. It was stated that on Boxing day terrier dogs were placed in a rat pit and a number of rats were killed. All the competing dogs were badly bitten and in one competition two rats were seen hanging from the bleeding jaws of a dog.—London Mail.

Water Colors.

Bodies of water take on different colors at different times. The intense blue that is sometime noticed is often nothing more than the reflection of a clear sky from the surface of brown river water. But men that have studied the sea say that the water is bluest when it is most salty. They say that in such salty places as the Gulf of Mexico and the Mediterranean sea the blue is caused by the salty quality and not by the summer skies. The sea in the northern oceans is green rather than blue.

If you have ever visited a natatorium, where the water for swimming is held in a great white tiled tank, you must have noticed the color. When the surface of the water is untroubled the color is a deep green, except where direct sunlight strikes it and turns it to a brilliant olive. But let a swimmer once disturb the surface and seed little waves rippling in every direction, and the green disappears, to be replaced by a blue like that of the sky. Yet if you catch up some of this water in your hand you will find that it is colorless.

Even the Chanticleer.

Clarence was leaving early that night. The cuckoo had just sounded the eleventh hour. In the back yard the family rooster uttered a maudlin crow. "Clarence," called her father from an upper window, "will it trouble you to step around back of the house and throttle that rooster? He heard the door close and he thinks it's day light."

Lemon Hint.

Instead of throwing away hard, dry lemons, put them in a pan of hot water and set it where it will maintain about the same degree of heat without boiling for two hours. When taken out and dried the lemons will be as soft and juicy and rich in flavor as though they had never grown hard.—McCall's Magazine.

Easy.

Young Widow—"Did you have any trouble getting Jack to propose?" Girl Friend—"No, dear; I told him you were after him."—Boston Transcript.

CHARLEROI LOSES BY BIG SCORE

Last Game of Series Claimed by Monongahela Independents

CLAIM CHAMPIONSHIP

Illuminative and speculative baseball was played at the ball grounds Saturday afternoon. Illuminative because of the illustration furnished of just how badly it is possible for the Charleroi Independents to be beaten; speculative because of the way in which it was accomplished. The Monongahela Independents came to Charleroi determined to take everything in sight as their share in the Monongahela valley championship, it being the third in a series of three games. They did leave us our new Federal building and fragments of our honor, but even that furnished us little comfort. The extraction of the game was not painless. It would have come easier had they given gas.

Willis Humphries, brother of Bert and from California, essayed to keep the redeyed Monongalians at a respectful distance. Willis nobly performed and worked hard, yet his dignified, not to say formal advances were received by the impolite crowd from down river with a positive boisterous sort of glee. They familiarized themselves with his offerings the first inning, and then loafed on the job until the fifth.

And such a fifth. No worse has been sprung in the National league since Pop Anson was a little boy. Willis was not so much to blame as other folks scattered at intervals throughout various parts of the pasture. Everybody hit the ball for Monongahela as a matter of course, and nearly everybody in the field that got their hands on the same old decorated horsehide tried to play fancy stunts with it as a matter of course. Fourteen batters batted beneficient balls. Still there were only six hits made. Finally in the hope that it might change the luck Manager Mathers called Bert Osborne to the mound relieving Humphries. That failed to phase Moron. They smacked the ball all the same. In the sixth they manipulated four runs on four hits, one man hit by a pitcher, two errors, a base on balls and a stolen base. In the eighth they caught one run on a double and a single.

Westerwick, a great big, raw-boned, nearly handsome specimen of Pittsburg humanity, southpawed the Charleroi boys out of scores. Five hits were all they were able to secure, and the home folks were fortunate to be let off with that. Westerwick pitches for the Alling-Cory team in Pittsburg when he isn't out increasing his bank account by pitching elsewhere. The score:

GETTYSBURG PICTURES AT THE COYLE

Announcement is being made today of a special picture of the Gettysburg reunion of veterans of the Civil war that has been secured for production at the Coyle Theatre tomorrow night. The film is 1,000 feet long, showing the various events transpiring during the reunion at the noted Pennsylvania battlegound. Among the scenes shown are those of Gov. J. K. Tener, of Pennsylvania and President Woodrow Wilson bowing to the multitude and acknowledging applause. The picture, it is asserted tells the tale of the reunion far better than it could be told by pen, strikingly portraying the most interesting occurrences.
